ABINGTON, Pa., Sept. 25.—The brutally bludgeoned body of the auburn-haired woman found slain in an unoccupied farmhouse at nearby Horsham was identified today as Ethel M. Atkins, 30, of Philadelphia, mother of twin sons.

The identification was made by the victim's husband, James, in Abington Memorial Hospital while state, county and local authorities pressed their search for the murderer, believed to be a "sex maniac." The husband, police said, came to the hospital after reading accounts of the cold-blooded slaying in the morning newspapers.

Atkins told detectives he had been trying to locate his wife since she disappeared after they quarrelled last Saturday.

Head Crushed

The victim's head was crushed by heavy blows and the body, stripped of all clothing, except silk stockings and one white slipper, was mutilated and there were deep bruises indicating a severe beating.

Both London And Berlin Being Cruelly Punished

By H. R. NICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 25.—London as well as Berlin is being cruelly punished and the last 24 hours of the bombing duel between the German and British air forces points to the unhappy conclusion that both capitals are on the way to eventual total destruction.

There probably will not be a very great loss of life. Indeed, it may be a surprisingly small total. But there is no obvious method, despite newspaper talk, to halt the complete razing of any city subjected to the sort of indiscriminate bombing this one has endured since early August.

It isn't funny at all any more—if it ever had been since the big raids began—to live in this wonderful old city and the only compensation for the hardships and terrors of living here is the inspiring companionship of civilians who are fixing a new record for spiritual and physical endurance.

The most hardened anti-shelter "toughies" who insist they sleep like tops "no matter how loud they sound" are nowadays apologetically sneaking downstairs to whatever protection is available.

This influx of fresh waves of refugees unfortunately proved that contrary to the original impression there are not enough shelters to go around and the conviction is reinforced that one of the prime tasks of the government is to go in now for digging deep shelters for the whole population.

Murder Case Testimony Is Being Heard

Court To Determine Penalty For Arthur F. Dean In Murder Of Helen Nasal

DEAN RECENTLY PLEADED GUILTY

For the purpose of determining the degree of guilt of Arthur F. Dean, Judge Thomas W. Dickey this morning started taking testimony in court room number one in the murder case against Dean for the killing of his sister-in-law, Helen Nasal, on the night of June 13. At noon the commonwealth had completed its testimony and the defense had started.

Helen Nasal was found brutally murdered in a field near her home on Motor street, Shenango township, near Butler avenue, about 12:30 a. m. June 14. A few hours later Arthur F. Dean was arrested for the crime and shortly after, confessed to the killing. Later he pleaded guilty to the charge preferred against him and it is now up to Judge Dickey to decide whether he should be electrocuted, given life imprisonment, or sentenced to ten to twenty years in prison for second degree murder. The commonwealth insists it is first degree, the defense thinks it rises no higher than second.

In support of the commonwealth's case District Attorney John G. Lamoree called a number of witnesses this morning.

State Motor Policeman Earl T. Denton, photographer for the motor police, identified pictures he had taken of the scene of the crime. County Detective Paul A. Welsh identified a picture of the dead girl he had taken at the scene of the crime.

German Circles Silent On Report Of Military Alliance With Japan

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Official German circles threw a veil of mystery today around reports that Nazi Germany is about to conclude a military alliance with Japan.

Neutral quarters were inclined to regard the reports as a "trial balloon," and some observers looked upon them as British propaganda. One informed spokesman expressed the view that Britain could rouse the United States further against the Rome-Berlin axis by flaunting the spectre of Italo-German intervention in the Far East in favor of Japan.

Questioned regarding the rumors that Japan and Germany are deeply involved in discussion of a mutual defense pact, a Wilhelmstrasse spokesman said there was no official information. He admitted, however, that Berlin and Tokyo are keeping in close touch with developments and some axis counter-measure to Anglo-American naval cooperation in the Pacific would surprise no one here.

Meanwhile, qualified circles continued to hint at the possibility of some spectacular axis demonstration over the week-end. Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy is expected in Berlin and some new "comprehensive agreement affecting the course of the war" is anticipated.

Many 'Draft Volunteers' Are Predicted For Army

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Hopes suddenly surged at national draft headquarters in Washington today that most of the first 400,000 conscripts needed under the compulsory military training law could be furnished the army from so-called "draft volunteers."

This hope was based on an influx of inquiries as to how a man could volunteer for his year's training under the draft law. In many of the inquiries, some 260 in number, men of draft age signified that they would volunteer for service immediately in order to "get it over with."

Draft experts, who gave the inquiries critical analysis, said that they came from only a few districts. They added that if there is proportionate sentiment throughout the country local boards may have enough so-called volunteers to fill their initial quotas under plans to call up 400,000 men before January 1.

However, the draft law, it was admitted, would have to be called into

Dream Of Unlimited Speed On New Highway Is Rudely Shattered

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—The motorist's dream of unlimited speed on the 160-mile Pennsylvania turnpike today was shattered by a decree that the motor vehicle code "in its entirety" would apply on the super highway.

"Prior to such amendment to the vehicle code," it was added, "the legal speed limit on the turnpike will be the same as on any other Pennsylvania highway."

Five Injured In Clairton Blast

Building Of Pennsylvania Industrial Chemical Corporation Is Wrecked

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25.—Five workmen were injured today when an explosion and fire, for the second time in less than two years, ripped through a building of the Pennsylvania Industrial Chemical Corporation in nearby Clairton.

Police said that the employes were burned by hot pitch and tar as the blast tore out the roof of the structure and started flames which district firemen still were fighting two hours later.

"Everything went up through the roof," Clairton police explained, pointing out that the effect of the explosion which shook the community otherwise might have been more destructive.

The blast was heard two miles away.

Windows in the vicinity were shattered.

The plant was destroyed on November 27, 1938, by a $250,000 fire in which 5,000 gallons of chemicals were consumed after an "agitator" boiled over. Later the plant was rebuilt.

There's a hint I get each morning just a whisper in the breeze, seems to augur colder weather, days and nights you'd nearly freeze; there's a tint up on the cloud banks that is one I think I know, and it means it won't be too long 'till we're out a-shovelling snow. Little early yet I grant you, still the autumn that's a fact, but it won't be long 'till snow-drifts 'round the curbstone will be packed. And I wonder where the summer went, the one we didn't get, and I've thought perhaps we'd hit it, in a minor fashion yet, but no go it seems my neighbor, and there's only this to say, get yourself a nice big shovel, weather's fifty-eight today.

Nazi Preparations For Invasion Of Britain Incessantly Hammered

HEAVY HAZE ON FRENCH COAST

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 25—Royal Air Force bombers last night again attacked German "invasion ports" along the continental coastline, an official announcement said today.

German-held ports along the French and Belgian coasts took a renewed drubbing as the British bombers continued their incessant pounding of Nazi preparations for an invasion of England.

Heavy Haze On Coast

Ports along the French coast were shrouded in a heavy haze, but during the night watchers from England's southeastern shores saw the reflections from countless flashes of exploding bombs.

Tremors from the heavy explosions were felt in England. German defenders of the ports threw up a tremendous anti-aircraft barrage against the attacking planes.

operation in some cases, and particularly for the next group of 500,000 men to be recruited into the army next April.

Swamped With Protests

While plans for registration of the 16,500,000 men of draft age, 21 to 35, went forward, officials in Washington were beginning to be swamped with protests from men of draft age that army recruiting stations were refusing to allow them to volunteer for a year—the time of training specified under the draft act.

Draft board spokesmen explained that, under the regular army recruiting service, only three-year enlistments were being accepted.

However, on registration day (Oct. 16), those wishing to volunteer for a year's service immediately will be allowed to do so under the draft law. If they volunteer at that time, they probably will be among the first to be sent up for training under the selective service system.

At the same time, it was explained that not only men of draft ages but youths of 18 to 21 can volunteer before local boards if they have their parents' consent.

Can Volunteer On October 16

The time to volunteer for only one year's service, it was emphasized, is on registration day. The offer should be made at local draft boards, and not at army recruiting stations.

Meanwhile, a broad program to sell the draft to the public was started on many fronts—at draft headquarters, at the war department and at the White House.

President Roosevelt, at his press conference, urged those subject to the draft to study the regulations. The first two of six volumes of regulations were issued Monday. The president has yet to name a head of the draft board, an office that pays $10,000 a year.

President Roosevelt expressed surprise that local draft board members and persons handling registration on Oct. 16 expected to be paid. He said he had talked with several governors and mayors and that there was not a single recommendation that registration officials be paid.

Expect U. S. Retaliation

Tokyo, Sept. 25.—Japan expects the United States to undertake some retaliatory action in reply to the Nipponese invasion of French Indo-China, Tomokazu Hori, a Tokio foreign office spokesman, declared today.

But any such action, Hori said, will have no effect upon Japanese moves in the Far East.

Confirming this statement, military headquarters issued an official communique announcing that Japanese expeditionary forces were landing at Haiphong today "under terms of the Franco-Japanese agreement of September 22."

"The landing is being effected peacefully and amicably under terms of the agreement," the statement said.

(Editor's note: On Monday in Washington Secretary of State Cordell Hull openly criticized the Japanese invasion of Indo-China and reiterated the opposition of the United States to any change in the Far Eastern status quo "under duress."

street, a small side-street composed of two-story brick homes in Philadelphia, told authorities they had not seen the young mother since last Friday night when they heard loud voices in the house.

Atkins, they said, apparently attended to his three and a half year old twin sons, Jimmy and Johnny, himself over the week-end. He is employed as an iron worker in the plant engineering department of the Baldwin Locomotive Works at Eddystone, near Chester.

Definite belief that the gruesome murder was the work of a "sex fiend" was expressed by Fred Smillie Montgomery county district attorney, as he announced the victim's body bore signs of savage mutilation—apparently done with a knife.

The scene of the slaying is within a few miles of the home of the late Mrs. Clara Buchanan, well-to-do West Norristown township matron, whose murder almost a year ago to the day is still unsolved. Although authorities were never able to confirm their suspicions that Mrs. Buchanan was attacked, the year-old case has served to excite belief that perhaps a sex murderer is lurking in this Montgomery county residential vicinity.

Body Discovered

Frightfully battered and bludgeoned, the body of the red-headed victim was discovered by the owner of the farmhouse, John Bready, of Willow Grove, and Charles Leo, of Horsham, a prospective tenant.

Accompanied by their wives, Bready and Leo were driving into the automobile pathway of the property when Bready discovered a broken window in the place.

Immediately suspicious, he induced Leo to pound at the back door while he gained entrance at the front of the house to trap possible intruders. The women were left behind as Bready broke in and ran to the second floor to discover a hallway and two bedrooms splattered with blood.

Signs of a furious struggle were about. Bready told police, and on the second floor was discovered a discarded club, three feet long and an inch and a half in diameter. The instrument was stained and split as though from repeated blows.

Sees Form On Stairway

Peeking down a darkened stairway leading to the kitchen, Bready saw a form lying huddled at the bottom of the stairs. He immediately ran to the rear door to admit Leo and together they opened the door leading from the kitchen to the back stairs.

There, sprawled in grotesque attitude, was the body of the slain girl, apparently about 30 years of age. The head was smashed, the lower lip almost cut off and two teeth knocked out. The girl wore only silk stockings and one white shoe. Dr. John C. Simpson, coroner's physician, said she had been dead about six hours.

A dress, a slip and a figured handkerchief were the only other articles of clothing found and these were without blood stains or tears.

Calls State Police

Bready and Leo promptly called state police of the Doylestown barracks who, in turn, notified Montgomery county authorities. Chief of police McKee of Abington township ordered an old iron bed—the only piece of furniture on the second floor—removed to the Abington station house for investigation. The bed was covered with bloody fingerprints.

Belief that the woman started downstairs to escape the rain of blows which came her way was expressed by county detective Kaye Munshower, who said it seemed unlikely that she was thrown from the top of the steps. She may have fallen and been beaten to death where she lay, he said.

a botch he made of what he conceived as "the perfect crime".

Still On Hunt

In his statement absolving Muhlenbroich of the Mattson crime, FBI Assistant Director Earl J. Connelley said that while the bureau had evidence to indicate the German is in the clear, nevertheless "the Mattson case is still being invesigated".

The German was working in a barbar shop in Maxwell, Cal., at the time of the Mattson crime, Connelley revealed. Within a few weeks of the Mattson snatch, and the finding of the child's nude body in a snowbank a fortnight later, Muhlenbroich was seriusly injured in a skiing accident, and spent weeks in the Maxwell hospital, finally leaving the town months after the Mattson case had passed into obscurity.

Jones, chairman, who is ill, and Charles T. Carpenter, Glenmoor. The death of Frank Bebout, Mononogahela, leaves a vacancy on the comimssion which may be filled by Governor James.

THINKING MAKES IT SO

COMMANDER RAYMOND J. KELLY of the American Legion stressed a point that is in many minds when he said at Boston:

"In my opinion there is no more important mission for thinking Americans than to give their best efforts to the job of reducing, and if possible eliminating, the type of war hysteria and fear which in the end most likely may lead us into conflict."

Many of the accompaniments of war will soon be about us. Already 60,000 National Guardsmen are in the national service. In less than a month 16,500,000 young Americans will be registered for compulsory military service. Of these some 400,000 will be drafted in November. Military uniforms will become a commonplace. More and more, too, industry will be producing war materials. The nation will become increasingly military-minded.

How to keep the national psychology concentrated upon peace at home while war is raging abroad and preparedness is dominant here is a real problem. It is altogether too easy to assume that peace-time conscripts inevitably will be swept into conflict. This is a line of thought that weakens the fabric of resistance to war. The thing to remember is that preparedness is for defense, not for aggression.

On no other basis would Congress have authorized or the American people have approved the draft. The rejoinder to those who fear the nation will become involved in war is that it is arming to make itself too strong to invite attack. Thought about the war cannot be completely controlled. But we can strive to avoid national hysteria or a fatalistic psychology that might in the end take us where we do not want to go.

THE HOOVER FORECAST

Not many people who are alive to the situation missed a vital point in Herbert Hoover's latest outgiving at the University of Pennsylvania. This was the assertion that after peace has come any economic adjustment will have to be accomplished without the aid of disarmament.

If Britain wins it is not likely to disarm with the Hitler scourge fresh in its mind. If Hitler wins he will be afraid as a conqueror to take his finger off the trigger. Whoever the winner overseas, the United States, its armament program already reaching through 1944, certainly will not consent to leave its gun on the outside at any economic conference seeking to compose commercial differences. Hoover concludes logically that America's answer to that condition will be to dig in for industrial efficiency with a struggle for self-containment.

In outlining this problem on the economic side it is noteworthy that Herbert Hoover very soberly held up before his countrymen the gravity of any tendency in America to the totalitarian thing in government. He declared without qualification that if this country enters the war totalitarian dictatorship here is inevitable.

CASE WHERE PUBLICITY HELPED

The speedy return, unharmed, of three-year-old Marc de Tristan, Jr., and the capture of his abductor, brings to a happy conclusion a kidnaping case that had stirred the country.

With no ransom paid, with the capture of the kidnaper brought about mainly by his own blunders and certain fortuitous circumstances, the child's parents may count themselves, as undoubtedly they do, exceedingly fortunate.

The alien who stole the boy, judging by his actions and his ransom notes, appears eccentric, possibly unbalanced. In his desperation to escape he might readily have resorted to murdering the child. His capture came none too soon.

In this connection, the part that publicity given the de Tristan case played in the rescue of the boy is worth noting. Complete secrecy on all the details of kidnapings is sometimes urged as an aid to running down the criminals. But if the lumbermen who halted Muhlenbroich had not heard of the abduction and been familiar with published descriptions of the child, they might easily have passed him by.

The peculiar status of the kidnaper as an alien, once arrested for illegal entry into this country, deserves special attention from the authorities.

THE BATTLE OF THE BEST SELLERS

If the Presidential candidates run out of words this year each of them has in reserve enough authors to supply ideas, phrases, slogans, plots, smart cracks, historical analogies, incitements to riot and happy endings to keep a campaign going till the cows come home.

In the President's corner are to be found Marc Connelly, Edna Ferber, Robert Sherwood, Alice Duer Miller, Frank Sullivan, Rex Stout, Hervey Allen, Willem Van Loon and a lot of others.

Supporting Mr. Willkie are Booth Tarkington, Faith Baldwin, James Truslow Adams, Katherine Brush, John Erskine, Irvin S. Cobb, Phil Stong, Kathleen Norris and a great many more.

It might be a good stunt for the literary legions to take the stump in a series of word-slinging matches between, for instance, Historian Van Loon and Adams, Novelists Ferber and Norris, Jokesmiths Sullivan and Cobb, Writers Sherwood and Tarkington. Heroes, heroines, villains, moonlight, romance, narrative, dialogue, description—all could be flung with reckless abandon for the country's amusement, in the Battle of the Best Sellers.

When the noise died down the main bout would be decided, of course, by several million persons whose literary ability is limited largely to "Yours truly" and "Enclosed find bill (or receipt)," but who feel pretty sure that, next to the Bible, the American Constitution, with its checks and balances to prevent one-man Government, offers about the best assortment of words and ideas to be found in any language.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PREPARING THE SCHOOL LUNCH

In most high schools and many elementary schools, lunches in the cafeteria are prepared by persons trained in dietetics. Some high school cafeterias are supervised by the teacher of home economics. Nevertheless, all too many lunches at school are still being prepared by those who are not trained for this purpose.

Parents have a right to know about their particular school. Some of the less capable directors of school cafeterias might be induced to take as their guide the pamphlet, "Menus and Recipes for Lunches at School," to be had by sending five cents to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Parents who prepare lunches at home for their children to eat at school can get valuable hints and helps from this pamphlet.

Hot Pick-Ups

Thanks to the leadership of some wise teachers and principals, and to the interest of the PTA, smaller schools especially in rural places which don't have a school cafeteria, provide ways at school of supplying milk, cocoa or hot soup to supplement the food the child brings from home.

When I was a boy in the country school we took our lunch to school with us. At the noon recess, we grabbed a sandwich, piece of cake or pie, and an apple, perhaps, and ran out to play as we ate. Some children today at school eat in like fashion. Not all do.

A few years ago I visited an ungraded rural school in New Jersey where tomato juice, milk and hot vegetable soup were provided. The children prepared these foods in an orderly fashion, directed by the teacher. Before any child began to eat, all were quiet and seated, after which grace was said. With the charming, gracious teacher as their hostess, these children ate in an atmosphere of refinement.

Real Care

I learned that this teacher had, without pay but with the aid of some older pupils during the preceding summer, canned large quantities of vegetable soup and tomato juice made from fruit and vegetables donated by the farmers of that neighborhood, and stored it in the school basement. Once a week this teacher would take three or four of her children to her home for Saturday lunch, giving them, as she said, an opportunity to learn some of the social graces.

This teacher also would remain in the school area on Friday evenings in order to take a group of boys ten miles to Scout Meeting. In May and early June she would also take children in relays of four or five to a swimming beach. Great teachers do many things they are not paid for, which money could not buy, indeed.

I also once heard a lovely young woman at a teacher's institute tell of how she provided hot lunches for her school children in an ungraded rural school among the coal mines of West Virginia, and of her mode of teaching her pupils during the school luncheon, table manners.

I wish school principals who have cafeterias in their school building would treat the luncheon hour as the period of greatest educational possibilities, instead of bedlam and boisterousness as seems to be the rule in many places.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

SO HOPE WE ALL

There's a complacent conceit about an Englishman that no other race or breed of men can quite equal. To the Britisher of course, it isn't conceit, for anything not made in Britain—to a man of Britain—is simply second-best and has been since the world began. The Britisher knows that—and knowing it, sees no good reason for not admitting it. To others, an Englishman may, at times, seem cock-sure, bumptious and even arrogant. But in his own glass your British friend sees only a steady-going English gentleman, who takes his world as he finds it, but prefers it British.

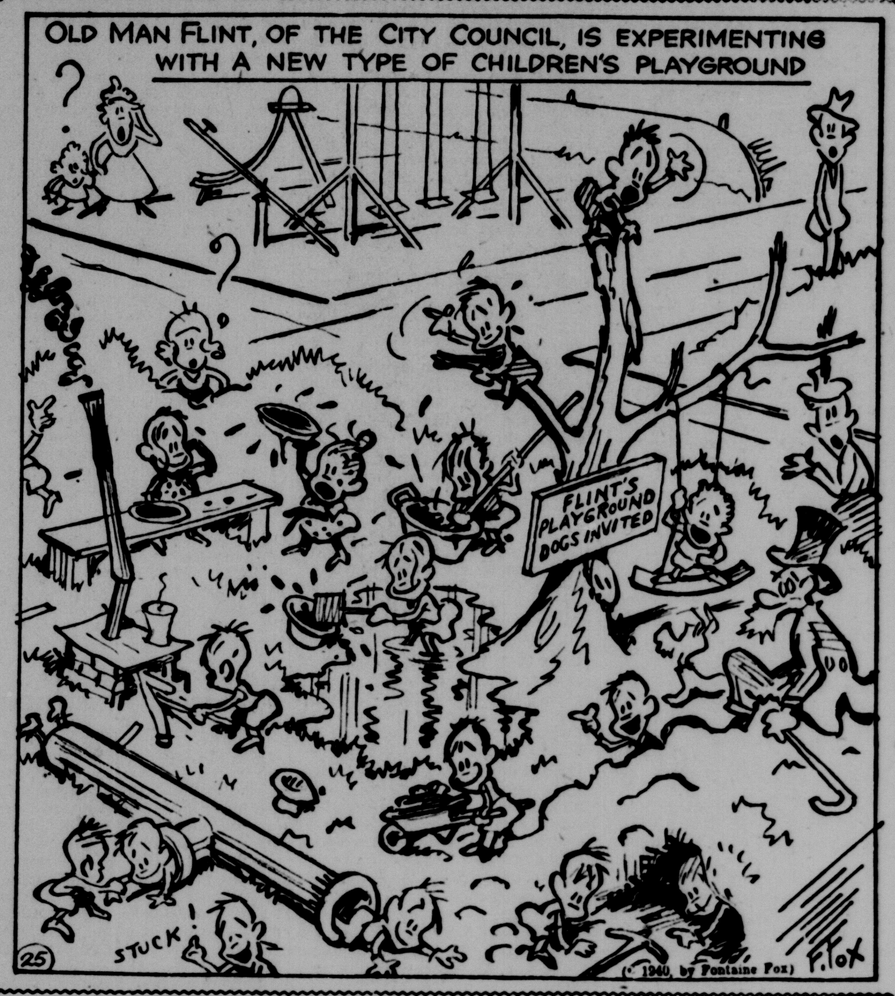

And now, reading of the magnificent defense which the Tommies are putting up in the Battle of Britain, and noting the terse matter-of-factness of official British communiques, it is difficult at first thought for many Americans to reconcile the Englishmen they've met with the laconic Englishmen who are boldly trading blow for blow with Hitler and making little fuss about it.

Actually, however, there's nothing strange about it. The British are at their best when the going gets roughest, probably because it has never occurred to your real Britisher that he could ever get the worst of it. Even though terse of speech, the men of England are still boasting of England—but through acts, rather than words. There are bombs drenching English soil with the blood of women and children. But the English speak little of that; they roar into the skies with such ferocity and calm assurance of ultimate victory that they have been taking a toll of three planes for one of Hitler's invading forces.

The odds against them are most formidable, but to the English mind the power can never be on this earth that can conquer the British Isles and makes slaves of Englishmen. And the way the valiant, tough (yes, cocky!) British fighters are making good on every boast of British self-esteem, our impulse is to give our English cousins a tremendous hand along with all the war supplies we can send—and to hope, in the words of bleeding England's defiant war song, that "There'll Always Be England."

Answer: Without knowing you, Marjory, my diagnosis would be that you are too good a conversationalist. Lonely spinsters will dote on your descriptions of scenes and experiences abroad, but not the male of the species who is still in the wife-hunting stage. He wants you to talk about him. Other Readers' Questions Answered

Question: I never know whether it is within the rules of propriety for a girl to ask a boy to a dance. Our school has two or three dances a year which I must attend. What am I to do? I can't go unescorted and yet have no fiance on whom I can depend to take me?—Ellen.

Answer: Buy two tickets to such a dance and pay for them yourself. Then ask a boy you know fairly well, preferably one who has taken you out or one you are "sure of" to accompany you.

You might find it somewhat embarassing to ask a new acquaintance to take you to the dance. For you would not know whether he has acquiesced for the sake of politeness or because he enjoys your company.

But do not ask a boy to any affair whatsoever and expect him to supply the tickets.

Patsy: By all means call on the boy and his mother and offer your condolence. You must either do this or write him a letter, even though your acquaintance is short-lived and your potential interest uncertain.

Franco Of Spain Grows In Importance
Axis Powers Are Making Overtures Now
Plenty Of Foodstuffs Remain In Spain

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Diplomats are considerably interested by indications of a hook-up between Europe's Axis dictators, Fuehrer Hitler and Duce Mussolini, and Caudillo Franco, down in Spain.

Army and navy men also take notice of the development. To be sure, Spain still is too flat on its back, from the effects of its recent civil war to amount to much as a fighting potentiality. However, it has a good bit to offer in the way of supplies that the Axis may presently need very badly. It has plenty of cattle and sheep, a fair supply of grain and lots of coal and other minerals. And it's accessible to both Germany and Italy overland, through France, now that the latter is vanquished, so that Britain's superiority afloat can't signify as to this particular alignment, if it's effected. True, overland shipments out of Spain are a trifle inconvenient to handle, because the Spanish rail gauge is wider than the rest of Europe's except Russia's. Consequently everything has to be unloaded and reloaded at the frontier. That's a nuisance, but a nuisance merely.

Caudillo Franco naturally inclines to be friendly toward Germany and Italy. They helped him to overthrow the Spanish republican government which preceded his own. Italy aided him with many Italian soldiers; Germany mainly with war raw materials.

Russia, though, was on the Spanish republicans' side. Franco hates Stalin. There's a rift in the lute, if the Communists are to be considered as one corner of a totalitarian alliance.

Not So Altruistic

It appears, too, that Caudillo Franco isn't so grateful to even Fuehrer Hitler and Duce Mussolini as to go into cahoots with them unless he's promised something out of the bargain likewise.

The report is that he asks for the British fortress of Gibraltar, at the western end of the Mediterranean, and for the big French island of Madagascar, off the east African coast. In short, El Caudillo wants to re-transform Spain into the first class power that it once was, and he himself wants to be absolute boss of it.

Of course, Hitler and Mussolini can agree to these terms but they can't deliver the goods unless they lick Britain.

If the British win they certainly will keep Gibraltar and it's equally certain that they won't turn over Madagascar to the Axis to dispose of to Franco or anybody else.

For that matter, it's well known

WHEN ALL'S WELL

These things I am sure are worth owning:
A garden to plant in the spring,
Some useful devices for loaning
To neighbors who come borrowing.
A pot or a kettle or spices,
A novel or two which you've read,
A pantry which hunger suffices
And a durable roof over head.

These gladden man's heart for the minute:
The blossom and fruit of a tree;
A cage with a singing bird in it,
The smile of a child at his knee
The flower of food on his table,
In winter a chair at his fire;
For his wife either mink coat or sable—
Then little is left to desire.

These are every man's lesser successes:
His home and his lawn and his car;
His women folks' bonnets and dresses.
All's well if sufficient they are.
All's well if there's coal in the cellar
And meat in the pantry and bread,
With a warm coat and gloves and umbrella
And a durable roof over head.

Tough Spot For Mr. Lewis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. WHETHER in this campaign Mr. John L. Lewis, the able head of the CIO, ultimately will take the position which his previous utterances make logical, or whether he will eat publicaly his words and fall into line behind the third-term candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt, is still a matter of opinion.

VARIOUS journalistis and political spokesman of the New Deal recently have asserted than in a very few days Mr. Lewis would make a declaration in favor of Mr. Roosevelt. On the other hand, Mr. Daniel Tobin, head of the strongly pro-Roosevelt Teamster's Union, after talking with Mr. Lewis asserts that, while because of a "bad cold" and "press of business", Mr. Lewis would not come out for Mr. Roosevelt, nevertheless he would quietly use his influence against Mr. Willkie and in favor of the White House incumbent.

IT seems that Mr. Lewis is in a considerable jam. Some months ago he made a statement in which he asserted that if Mr. Roosevelt ran for a third term he would be "ignominiously defeated" and would "deserve to be". In private and in public Mr. Lewis left no doubt as to his attitude toward Mr. Roosevelt. Upon numerous occasions he has expressed himself as believing him to be a dangerous man, and he has said that the really vital thing to the country is to get him out of the White House. His dislike for Mr. Roosevelt personally is exceeded only by his distrust of him politically. He has made no secret of this feeling. Coming from the man responsible for a $600,000 contribution to the 1936 Roosevelt campaign, and who heads an organization claiming 2,000,000 members, his attitude seemed politically important.

NOTHING could have been more emphatic than Mr. Lewis' opposition to the third term a few months ago. Since then, however, he has been subjected to a great deal of pressure from without as well as within his organization. With what they have to offer in the way of power, prestige and patronage, the third-termers had no difficulty in swinging away from Mr. Lewis' various CIO leaders who dominate important unions and who were induced to come out for the Roosevelt candidacy. The President put one of these on the Defense Commission. Others were fitted into other posts. A calculated effort to undermine and isolate Mr. Lewis was made by the Administration strategists.

AT the same time a campaign of disparagement was launched against him by reflectors of White House thought and no effort was spared to make it appear that his opposition to the third term would mean his complete elimination as a labor leader in the event of the third term being successful. Last week a meeting between Mr. Rosevelt and Mr. Lewis was arranged at the White House. According to Administration authorities, the meeting was requested by Mr. Lewis. It took place in the evening and had no publicity. But — again by Administration mouthpieces—it was asserted Mr. Lewis had told the President that shortly he would come out for him, and the President, in return, has assured Mr. Lewis that he would reappoint Mr. Madden as head of the NLRB.

THAT is the situation. One set of Administration supporters, represented by Mr. Tobin, insists that Mr. Lewis will not come out for Mr. Roosevelt, but will help him under cover. Another set is equally positive he will come out and that in return he will continue to control the NLRB. Neither of these courses would seem to Mr. Lewis' taste. It is not complimentary to him to assume that he will take either one. If he does what Mr. Tobin says he intends to do, he will stultify himself without earning the thanks of the White House. But if he does what the New Deal writers predict then he will sacrifice his self-respect and scrap his principles in a sordid deal. And, even then, he knows White House gratitude would not be his, because in his heart Mr. Roosevelt dislikes Mr. Lewis as much as Mr. Lewis dislikes him.

IT seems a pretty tough spot for Mr. Lewis. He can hardly come out with credit if he adopts either of the courses forecast for him. Those who know Mr. Lewis best believe that he has both too much intelligence and integrity to adopt either. These are convinced he will disappoint both Mr. Tobin and the New Deal aides by standing just where he stood when he made that "ignominiously defeated" statement last March. It will be interesting to see.

Ecclesian Club Opening Session

Fall Season Is Inaugurated With Social Event Tuesday Evening By Club Members

Ecclesian club members inaugurated their fall season, Tuesday evening, with a most interesting program.

The Rev. Fr. Peter M. Schirra, spiritual advisor of the group opened the meeting with prayer, and after a brief discussion, president, Ray F. McAuley, introduced Rev. Fr. William J. Erkens, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's church and master of ceremonies.

An entertainment period was held with members of the Young Ladies' Sodality and the church glee club, participating. The Sodality song, "Christ The King," opened activities followed by the selection, "Old Black Joe." The glee club was accompanied by Miss Marguerite Uhl, pianist.

An amusing playlet, entitled, "Rebuilding Our City," was presented by the Sodality, under the direction of Rose Uhl. Those in the cast were as follows: Charlotte Leonardo, Elizabeth Sansoni, Leota Fleeger, Kathryn Duff, Loretta Fleeger, Mary Costello and Leona Preisel. Following the performance, Miss Gladys Mitchell and Kathleen Blake favored the assembly with a duet number, "The Holy City," followed by encours. Chris Connors, member of the club, sang, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Guest speakers for the occasion were Rev. Fr. John H. McMahon, of the Corpus Christi church of Pittsburgh, and classmates of Father Erkens. Father McMahon complimented the organization on their ideals and enthusiasm, and emphasized the need of spiritual guidance in the world of today. Dr. John A. Meehan, a new member, also addressed the group on the good types of entertainment for youths of today. Both talks were well received.

Rev. Fr. Edmund Rowan, chaplain at the New Castle hospital, provided the musical accompaniment for the group singing, which followed. Paul Ellsworth, chairman of the lunch committee, prepared a tasty lunch, served on long tables, attractively arranged for the occasion.

The singing of "God Bless America," brought the event to a successful close. October 8, is the date for the next meeting.

that Italy covets Gibraltar. It aims to control both ends of the Mediterranean—"one sea," as the Italians call it. Mussolini may join Hitler in a pledge to surrender "Gib" to El Caudillo, but if they ever get possession of the rock, the best betting is that they'll euchre the Spanish out of it at the final settlement. In such an event, it's no cinch, diplomats say, that the Fuehrer and the Duce themselves won't fall to quarreling over it.

El Caudillo Franco

Be all that as it may, Francisco Franco has become prominent of late. His designation, 'El Caudillo," is the Spanish equivalent of the German "Der Fuehrer", or the Italian "Il Duce".

It's pronounced like this—"Cow-dee-yo." The accent's on the middle syllable. Anybody can see with half an eye that "E" means "the."

El Caudillo's chief negotiator is his brother-in-law, Ramon Serrano Suner. Ramon is Spain's minister of the interior, but he's gone in for foreign affairs. He's in a class now with Germany's Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop and Mussolini's son-in-law, Count Ciano. In this country we'd call that in-law business nepotism. There isn't any of it in von Ribbentrop's case, however. Von simply was a traveling wine salesman.

But, in the light of current developments, we ought to get acquainted with Ramon S. Suner. Over the "n" in his last name is a little jigger known as a tilde. There's no such character in English type faces, but it influences the pronunciation. Ramon's last name sounds like "Soon-yayr". The accent is on the second syllable and the "a" is like "a" in "hay". Then there's the "r" sound at the end of it.

Count Cianos name is similarly deceptive. It's thus—"Chee-ah-no." Accent on the second syllable.

War ends false values and establishes true ones. Orators and writers are now worth less than a good mechanic.

Sees Prosperity In U. S. For Two Or Three Years; But Warns Of Reaction

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 25.—Although predicting national prosperity for the next two or three years, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman, General Motors Corporation, warned against the reaction which "is bound to set in" at the conclusion of the national defense program.

"Like any other shot-in-the-arm process," he declared, "there is bound to be reaction. The more we recognize that the more intelligently we can prepare for it. A great deal of economic statemanship will be required when the time comes."

Favors Willkie

In this connection, Sloan said he favored the election of Wendell Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee.

Present defense program measures are proceeding "satisfactorily," but it will take industry about a year to begin actually producing the required materials due to the "highly technical" processes involved, Sloan pointed out.

"A year from now," he said, "defense materials will be rolling out in large quantities. By January we will be producing aviation engines in satisfactory quantities."

Sloan revealed that General Motors to date has received about $250,000,000 worth of contracts in the national defense program. He predicted still more orders would be forthcoming.

Asked if he favored the election of Wendell Willkie for president, Mr. Sloan replied:

Confidence Of Business

"I think that's a warrantable assumption. I can't see it any other way. If Willkie is elected it will help to offset the reaction which is bound to come at the conclusion of the present defense program."

Business, in the opinion of Sloan, has no confidence in Mr. Roosevelt.

He emphasized, that if the administration lets about $10,000,000,000 in contracts, industry at present cannot consume and begin actual work on more than $4,000,000,000 worth. He added:

"Industry should attempt to superimpose the defense materials upon peacetime production—thus making it a less per cent of the total. Defense materials should come first, of course, but we should do both."

Regarding the automobile industry, Sloan predicted that business would be about 10 per cent better for the 1941 models than for the cars sold this year. He said he based his prediction on the national defense program and the fact that he expected the large amounts of money expended would "permiate through the business community."

Two special guests were presented by the scout director, Helen MacLean, Miss Elizabeth Rice and Mrs. Thomas Clark, both council members. Business Course Makes Appeal To Many Freshmen

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Sept. 25.—Business administration majors were the most numerous this year at Westminster college, as 36 incoming students out of 214 chose to try for a bachelor of business administration degree.

Next in numbers came Secretarial Science with 31 majors; followed by English-Journalism with 15; Public School Music, 14; and Pre-Engineering 13. Forty-seven freshmen were undecided on the question of their major course of study.

Other freshmen-selections included: Biology 9; English and Commercial Teachers training, 7 each; History 4; Speech and Latin, 3 each; Science, Pre-medical, French, Social Science, Phy-sics, Mathematics, Foreign Language, and Bible, 2 each; and Government, Piano, Social-psychology, pre-law, economics, predental, art, and violin, one each.

Conscription of everything would be justified, if necessary. But let's not do it just to let the boys experiment some more.

The Stars are out—ALL FIVE!

This is the cyclonic CENTURY

Here's the sprightly SPECIAL

...and the sleek-lined SUPER

IT'S probably no news to you, since we simply couldn't keep those strapping big new Buicks off the street.

But it's official now: the bright and glittering stars of the 1941 season are out—so at any Buick showroom you can see the best automobiles Buick ever built.

You'll see a massive grille, a trim speed-stream radiator ornament—and behind them not one but five series of cars that are gorgeously new from dreadnaught bumper to direction-signaling taillight.

You'll spot a SPECIAL that not only looks like but definitely is the biggest package the money has ever bought.

You'll size-up a 125-horsepower SUPER that's still the shiningest style-star of the season, for all the efforts to duplicate its beauty.

You'll lay eyes on a CENTURY broader, longer, bigger in every way, with an additional twenty-four horsepower under its thrusting hood—and a ROADMASTER that's its rival in action and the very picture of super-streamlined grace.

You'll see a Buick LIMITED that is close to twenty feet of sheer spacious luxury—top-of-the-line in finish, richness and meticulous appointment.

All this your wonder-wide eyes will tell you, then your ears begin to take things in.

You'll learn here's lower-swung weight—a better, steadier, softer ride.

Here are sensational new micro-poise-balanced engines—FIREBALL Eights that get extra lift and power-wallop from still further progress in Buick's exclusive Dynaflash combustion principle—here's a brand-new Compound Carburetion that combines the lift of an extra engine with economy stepped up a full 10% to 15%!

Here are rugged new frames and new Flash-Way signals. New quiet-easy Concentric Shifting and new Permi-firm steering. New lovely body lines and new inside roominess. New instrument panels, new oil-bath air cleaners, new concealed running boards—even new clocks.

Yes, here are new things galore, modern new features by the dozen—but one thing is old, and hasn't changed a bit.

That's the plain rockbottom fact that when you see Buick you've seen the best of the bunch.

Make it the first one you see for '41, and save yourself a lot of fruitless looking around.

*According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, a super meteor which travels with a series of explosions like the shock waves of a great projectile is called a "FIREBALL."

Four In Battery F. To Be Advanced, Is Indication Of Capt. Mitchell

Promotions will probably come to four members of Battery F, 190th Field Artillery, within a very short time, Capt. Geroge F. Mitchell of the local National Guard troop (Troop K up until last week) announced today.

Application for the advancement of the following have been mailed to the Adjutant General's headquarters in Harrisburg:

First Lieut. William H. Goehring to Captain, assigned to the Third Battalion headquarters, 190th Field Artillery.

Second Lieut. Raymond F. Atkinson, to first lieutenant, Battery F, 190th F. A.

Sgt. Robert L. Moore, to second lieutenant, Battery F, 190th F. A.

Private First Class Everett E. Grandey, to second lieutenant, 190th F. A.

Captain. Mitchell, now receiving enlistments of young men liable to a year's camp training under the new conscription act, said he has not yet been informed as to where Battery F will be ordered for its tour of duty. He expects word almost any day, he said.

Formal transfer of Battery F from Troop K took place last week. Its regimantal headquarters now will be in Tyrone, Pa.

Japanese troops clashed with soldiers of the French garrison at Dong Dang (arrow) as Japan invaded French Indo-China. There were reports that Thailand, under Japanese pressure, might join in the invasion, but Tokyo described the battle as an "incident" for which the French were responsible and announced the occupation would continue. Japan declared France had agreed to give her three air bases in Indo-China and the right to send in 6,000 troops to man them. China, imperiled on a new front, manned her threatened border. (Central Press)

LONDON NEWSBOYS ADOPT BROADWAY'S FAMED TECHNIQUE

(International News Service)

LONDON — Broadway newsboy technique has arrived in London.

But instead of shouting "all about the big battle" cockney news sellers use black boards on which they chalk the latest devolpments with each edition.

Newspapers used to distribute handbills with a summary of their lead story, but paper shortage has prevented the continuance of this custom.

Left to their own devices, British news boys pick the story they like best and chalk their own interpretation of it.

Some of these efforts attract more attention than the newspapers themselves:

"R. A. F. gives Nazis another black eye," or "Hamburg is Hitler's headache."

One of the best was seen in Fleet street when the newspapers came out with the news of the British navy's pursuit of the Italian navy. The blackboard announced briefly, "Mediterranean boat-race."

Statistics of the Oregon state employment service challenged the assumption that a man over 45 can not get a job. Its age extremes for placements last year were from six to seventy years. The six-year-old "supered" in a street scene in the filming of "Abe Lincoln of Illinois."

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHANGING THE BABY

There wasn't room yesterday to give you all the tips on this subject.

If your baby is a girl, the extra part of the diaper should be folded at the back, when she is lying on her stomach, and in front when she is lying on her back. If the baby is a boy, then always have this extra pad in front.

When you pin the diaper, be sure and hold your hand between the baby and the napkin. Push the pin right through the folded napkin, and then close it and be sure that the safety pins you use are of good quality, so they can't come open by themselves. The fitted diaper should be snug, but not too tight. After you have changed the baby a few times, you will soon know the right tightness to have it.

I always advise mothers that when the diaper is in place, they should take another napkin, and fold it around the baby, high up on the abdomen. Over this the child's shirt should be pulled down. As the child gets older, it is a good idea to pin the diaper to the shirt to keep it in place.

It is a wise mother who watches the soiled diapers she removed from her child. From these she can learn a great deal about the physical condition of the baby. For instance, if the marks left by the urine are too highly colored, she will know that her child isn't getting enough water to drink.

At bath time each day, be sure and wash the child carefully. In this routine the technique is different for boys than for girls. In the case of a girl, be sure that you always clean from front to back. As the child gets older, wash carefully after each bowel movement. If, when you are attending to your girl baby, you see any swelling or discharge, be sure and call the doctor, for it might be the beginning of pyelitis.

Care of the diaper after it has been removed is important. It should be rinsed and dropped into a pail kept for that purpose. This pail should contain a warm boracic acid solution—a tablespoon of boracic to two quarts of water. Of course, before the diaper is dropped into the pail, it should be flushed in running water. All diapers should be washed once a day and hung out to dry in the sun. When dry, the diaper should be well shaken, and put away in a clean place.

It isn't necessary to iron diapers, but if you have time for it, well and good, for the heat of the iron further sterilizes the diaper.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

The vast majority of persons are old at 75 or before.

What determines personal variations in old age manifestations?

Heredity no doubt plays a prominent part.

Some are better endowed for old age than others.

Adequate nutrition in youth aids growth and development.

Fatigue, overwork, injuries, sickness, affect the body tissues.

There are other more subtle factors to consider, too.

Biological, social and economic factors have their weight.

The idea of growing old does not appeal to most persons.

They resent infirmities and invalidism and dependence.

They hate losing the position of dominance once held.

Mental and emotional readjustments are necessary to the aged.

A little nation shouldn't oppose Hitler. If it does, he takes it all; if it is friendly, he lets it keep its capital city.

Laying the ground work for an appeal to the Superior Court, Peter Askounes, owner of Candyland, by his counsel has filed exceptions to the opinion of Judge W. Walter Braham recently refusing to reverse the order of the State Liquor Control Board which revoked Askounes' license.

The opinion handed down by Judge Braham was a decree nisi, to which exceptions could be filed if they were filed within ten days. No appeal to the Superior Court can be taken unless exceptions are filed and heard.

The exceptions aver that first, the defendant was deprived of his property without due process of law; second the judge erred in not sustaining the appeal, third, the judge erred in failing to admit testimony showing the investment of the appellant, and fourth the revocation is not warranted by the weight of the evidence.

The exceptions will be argued in October.

For the week ending September 21, 496 voters registered according to the statement of the registrar, Charles D. Ross. Of the 496 registered, 326 are listed as Republicans, 151 as Democrats, 13 as No Party, 2 as Prohibitionists, 4 as Independents. In the change of party, 24 Democrats changed to Republican, 5 changed from Republican to Democrat, 1 changed from No Party to Independent, and 1 changed from Democratic to Independent. The special registration days in New Castle during the week aided the increase in numbers.

At the present time the total registered vote in Lawrence county is 43,636. Of this total 27,694 are Republicans, 15,636 are Democrats, 95 are Prohibitionists, 13 are Royal Oaks, 188 are registered No Party, and 10 are registered as Independent.

The present total is the highest in the history of the county since permanent registration was installed for all voters. In 1936 there were 45,593 registered voters but the voters outside the City of New Castle did not have to register personally. They were registered when they were assessed. When the permanent registration went into effect for the territory outside the city the number of registered voters dropped. Mr. Ross is confident that before the books are closed on the night of October 5 the total will reach 44,000 or more in Lawrence county.

Employes of the county treasurer are busy at the present time getting the delinquent tax books ready for the collector. In addition, hunting licenses are being issued rapidly and this means considerable work.

A gentleman walked into the marriage license bureau Tuesday and asked if he could get a marriage license. He came from Ohio and said he would have to wait five days over there. He was informed that in Pennsylvania he needed a prospective bride with him when he applied, also a health certificate and would have to wait three days. He left.

The record for age in registration seems to have been reached in the registration of Mrs. Laura Weller of 202 North Jefferson street. Mrs. Weller of 202 North Jefferson street. Mrs. Weller will be one hundred years of age in December but wants to vote for Willkie in November.

Her last registration was in Pittsburgh in 1920 and later she moved to Chicago. She has been living here for some time and wants to be a voter. She is the oldest registered voter in the county.

Thursday, September 26, which is tomorrow is another special registration day for Ellwood City. Party workers in the boro believe there are yet many people who can be registered and they asked for another special day. After the outstanding results of the last special day the Ellwoodians certainly rate another one.

The special day tomorrow will permit any resident of Ellwood City who has not registered, to do so. It also includes Wayne and Perry townships and the boros of Ellport and Wampum.

An action has been laid in the office of the clerk of courts by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the use of Irene Rubert against Anthony Rubert in which it is asked that any wages or dividends due Anthony Rubert from the Pennsylvania Railroad be attached to comply with a court order in which Ruber was ordered to pay $50 per month to his wife.

Angelo Ralph Occhibone of New Castle asks a divorce from Virginia Occhibone on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities to person. They were married July 15, 1920.

State Draft Director To Be Named By Governor

Draft Machinery Gets Under Way

Headquarters Set Up In Capital—Acting Director Is In Charge

SCHOOL HOLIDAY LIKELY OCTOBER 16

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—"A speedy appointment" of a state draft director was promised today by Gov. Arthur H. James, but in the meantime the task of getting the conscription machinery underway went on apace under the direction of an acting director.

The governor disclosed that a state draft headquarters has been set-up at the capitol, directly under the governor's office. A staff of 12 is now at work there.

Pending the appointment of a state director, who is expected to be a civilian, the draft preparations are being handled by Deputy Adjutant General Benjamin F. Evans, whom the governor has already designated as his choice for assistant director.

Printing Forms

Evans said plans for the printing of the necessary registration forms were to be completed today. The printed forms, for whose cost the state will be reimbursed by the federal government, will be ready on October 2 for distribution to the county commissioners.

The county commissioners will in turn distribute them to the election officials who will supervise the registration on October 16 of an estimated 1,500,000 men between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive.

The 422 draft boards in the state, the personnel of which have not yet been appointed, will meet on October 16 or earlier. Each group to be composed of three or more men, will establish its own organization and decide where it shall set up headquarters.

The governor's office has already issued a list of the local draft areas. In most instances the county seat was listed as the headquarters for all local county boards. It was later explained, however, that this was only a tentative arrangement and that the local draft boards, when selected, are expected to pick a centrally-located community in which to establish a local draft headquarters. A draft board for each 30,000 population is the plan in mind.

School Holiday?

Indications were that the governor would have a school holiday proclaimed on registration day. The governor said he would like to have the date impinged on the memory of school children as one of historic importance.

"I don't know of any date more important at this time than that on which we shall inaugurate a peacetime draft of our men," he stated.

The state liquor stores may also be closed for the day.

Meanwhile, Adjutant General Edward Martin, head of the state department of military affairs, journeyed to Washington to confer again with officials of the army and navy selective service (draft) committee. Upon his return, probably today, he was to meet with Governor James.

Baron Hardware Opens Fifth Store

Grand Opening Tomorrow Morning For Attractive Uptown Unit

TAKES OVER ROOM OF SPORTING GOODS

Baron Hardware Co., Thursday morning, at 9 opens its fifth—and largest—store unit in the spacious storeroom formerly occupied by the Sporting Goods store at 314-316 East Washington street.

Since the firm established its first store at 1221 Moravia street—a store which will be maintained along with the uptown unit—it has expanded into the Sharon, Youngstown and New Brighton districts. In each of those cities a Baron store now operates.

The new East Washington street store will become headquarters for all the stores—main offices and warehouse headquarters will be maintained there. The wideroom has been remodelled throughout, and modern fixtures make it one of the finest in this section.

Confident over New Castles business future, Louis Baron, owner and head of the business, today assured the public that the same quality policy which has distinguished the Baron organization in the past will be adhered to in the future.

The elder Baron directs the business with the assistance of three able sons, Sam, Frank and Harry. The latter manages the large Youngstown store.

Lee Hilliard, for six years associated with the Moravia street store, will become manager of the new headquarters store, Baron announced.

The firm's new store will carry a complete line of quality hardware, sporting goods, plumbing supplies and paints and related articles.

New and old friends of the company tomorrow will be welcomed at the grand opening, more news of which appears in the full-page opening announcement of the firm elsewhere in this issue.

Procter & Gamble Sends Sawyer Here

Appointment of David E. Sawyer, Cleveland, as New Castle district representative for Procter & Gamble, was announced today by that firm. He has assumed his duties and will reside at 209 East Leasure avenue.

Sawyer, graduate of Cleveland schools, succeeds Earl E. Campbell, representative of the large Cincinnati concern for many years, who has relinquished the post because of ill health. He lives on Garfield avenue.

Practices have been started by members of the Mahoning Young People's chorus for another musical concert, to be presented sometime in the very near future in the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church.

According to Miss Violet Shuler, director, music being prepared for this program is of a miscellaneous nature with no definite theme being planned.

While some of the chorus members have been lost temporarily to college classes, Miss Shuler states that interest has failed to decrease one bit and some new members have joined the organization. Anyone interested in becoming a part of the chorus should see the director.

RUMOR DAKAR HAS SURRENDERED NOT CONFIRMED

terday's air raid on the British strong of Gibraltar at the western entrance to the Mediterranean.

An official announcement said 45 tons of bombs were dropped upon the fortress "rock" in reprisal for the British and "free French" attack upon Dakar, French West African port and capital of Senegal.

(Editor's Note: Reports from Gibraltar stated four persons were killed and 12 wounded in the air raid.)

Gibraltar was bombed between 1 and 3 p. m. yesterday, the announcement said, and explosives were dropped on the harbor and docks.

Observers reported that one ship was hit and that smoke was seen over the port, the announcement said.

It added that all the French planes participating in the raid returned safely to their bases despite heavy anti-aircraft fire.

Heavy Fighting At Dakar

Reports received in Vichy indicated that heavy fighting progressed into the night at Dakar, with heavy shelling on both sides, despite the reverses suffered by the "free French" forces led by Gen. Charles De Gaulle and their British supporters.

An announcement by the Vichy government claimed that 6,000 defenders of the West African seaport, capital of colonial Senegal, had turned back six attempts by the British-supported forces of Gen. Charles De Gaulle to occupy Dakar.

Whether the battle was still progressing this morning was not known, since there was no direct communication between the Senegal capital and Vichy, owing to damage suffered by the Dakar radio station.

No Communication

This lack of communication explained why the French admiralty, in a communique issued today, was able to report developments at Dakar only up to noon yesterday.

The comumnique said that at 9:30 a. m. yesterday British planes heavily bombed the 35,000-ton French battleship Richelieu in Dakar harbor and the city's land fortfications, while French coastal batteries replied violently.

An hour later, the announcement said, a squadron of French planes dive-bombed British warships off Dakar. One large bomb was reported to have hit a British cruiser, the name of which was not given.

At 10:45 a. m. the French batteries ceased firing, according to the communique.

Up to noon yesterday French casualties numbered 65 civilians killed and 125 wounded, and 120 soldiers killed and 138 wounded. One French and three British planes were listed as lost.

The French planes were attached to a specially trained naval air force.

Two Slightly Hurt In Auto Accidents

Two persons were struck and slightly injured by automobiles here Tuesday, according to reports made by autoists to city police.

Rudolph Spincic, Bessemer, reported two girls ran into Mahoning avenue. One of them, Marguerite Alexander was struck and knocked down. She was taken to the New Castle hospital. She sustained slight injuries. The accident occurred at 4:30 p. m.

Henry Menichine, 1006 North Liberty street, said he was backing his auto out of Ashland avenue into Swansea street and it struck Ted Kascziuko who was working on his auto. Kascziuko sustained bruises to his left leg.

Erie Attorney Makes Address

"Third Term Is Definite Step Towards One Man Government," He Says

Pointing out similar technique between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Adolf Hitler in their quest for one man government, Attorney Mortimer Graham of Erie, Pa., spoke to a crowd of Republicans in court room number one of the Lawrence county court house Tuesday night.

"The Wiemar Republic is dead and it died within the confines of its own constitution," said Mr. Graham. Hitler came to power as the chancellor early in 1933. Franklin D. Roosevelt was inaugurated president in March 1933."

"Hitler appointed Dr. Goebbels as the Minister of Propaganda. Roosevelt placed a lot of high salaried publicity experts upon the public payroll. By decree, Hitler took control of industry and agriculture. Roosevelt tried to use the NRA and AAA to accomplish the same things. Hitler destroyed the supreme court of Germany because it would not approve the execution of Communists charged with the burning of the Reichstag. Roosevelt tried to pack our Supreme Court when it would not do his bidding."

"A third term is a definite step down the road towards one man government. In Germany they say concerning Hitler, only he can lead us. In United States Roosevelt terms himself the 'Indispensable Man'. He is willing to be 'drafted" but he took good care on Monday that his son Elliott escapes the draft. Elliott is made captain in the air corps a branch in which thousands of men have labored and studied for a commission. Elliot never had any military training."

Mr. Graham is a former district attorney of Erie county and is the man who first took the lid off the smelly gravel scandal in this state. He is a forceful speaker and made an impression upon the crowd. His Address was preceded with the movie short "We the People".

The meeting was sponsored by the Third Ward county committee members of the Republican party with Walter C. De Arment as chairman.

GERMAN RAIDERS KEEP UP ATTACKS ON BRITISH ISLES

which was attacking a south coast town. At the same time, new German formations were reported over northwest England.

Heavy Raid Last Night

As London dug itself out from the wreckage of last night's heavy raid upon the capital, reports filtering in from demolition and rescue squads indicated only a comparatively small loss of life.

Scores of persons, miraculously uninjured, were pulled out of shattered buildings and wrecked air raid shelters. Rescue workers were busy in various sections of the city until a late hour, refusing to allow the new air raid warning to interrupt their labors.

Warning sirens screamed during the morning, accompanied by the drone of airplanes and the distant roar of heavy anti-aircraft fire.

Some time later the capital returned to normal. There were no developments other than the anti-aircraft fire.

Bitterly surveying new heaps of debris in central London, British sources declared that last night's terrific Nazi raid was obviously in retaliation for the pounding meted out to Berlin by the R. A. F. on Monday.

Fiercest Raid

The German raid, which lasted all night, was termed the fiercest attempt yet made to set London "on fire."

Details of places affected and districts visited cannot be disclosed, but it can be stated without contradiction that many thousands of Londoners today have a better idea of what modern air bombing means than they ever had before.

Touring the damaged sections one saw glass and debris sterwn streets, miles of firehose in gutters and smoke curling from fires brought under control by heroic efforts of London's flame-fighters.

The city was full of sleepy-eyed office workers, grimly gazing at new gaps in the scenery or gaunt skeletons which yesterday were buildings.

Hundreds Of Bombs

During the raid incendiaries fell by the hundreds and high explosive bombs by the scores.

One aerial torpedo fell on one of central London's most popular centers, a place which cannot be named but which is known to thousands of Americans.

The huge bomb severely damaged a famous restaurant and also damaged a hotel. In the hotel alone six persons were killed and many others seriously injured.

The total number of casualties caused throughout London is not yet known.

In addition to widespread areas of the capital, many other sections of the British Isles were attacked.

MURDER CASE TESTIMONY IS BEING HEARD

they had been roller skating and on their way home had stopped at Troggio's cafe on the Butler road, where they sat outside on a bench. They heard noises in a field nearby but thought it was a cat fight.

About midnight they started home through a lane back of Troggio's and at a point some 150 yards from the cafe a man jumped out from the tall grass in a crouching position.

"Get out of here or I'll shoot you," the boys testified he said. They did not get a good look at his face. They called the state police.

State Police Testify

State Policemen Robert A. Klare and Robert O. McCullough were called and testified to being called to the scene of the crime around midnight, June 13.

They found the body of Helen Nasal in a clump of weeds, horribly slashed. The two boys who testified identified the body as that of Helen Nasal.

Klare went to the Dean home and questioned Arthur F. Dean, who told a story of having taken his sister-in-law Helen part way home and on the Butler road he left her, she going the remaining distance herself. At that time he professed innocence of the crime.

Later Dean went to the home of his wife's parents on Motor street, and with a brother of the deceased girl, came down to the scene of the crime. Klare and McCullough, suspicious of Dean, took him back to his home and after searching, found a pair of overalls wet to the knees. The overalls were in a corner of the cellar.

"They had weed seeds and pollen on them, much as our trousers had," said Klare. "There was also blood on them." Later they took Dean down to the district attorney's office and County Detective Paul A. Welsh and the state police continued the questioning. Klare and McCullough testified.

Find Blood On Nails

Mr. Welsh noticed red stains back under the cuticle of Dean's fingers and they took him to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where it was established the stains were blood. A sample of Dean's blood showed it to be Moss Type 2. A sample of Helen Nasal's blood showed it to be Moss Type 3. The sample of blood taken from the overalls showed it to be Moss Type 3 also.

Klare and McCullough testified that Dean later signed a confession, saying he had killed his sister-in-law after she had made overtures to him which he spurned.

Dr. H. C. Harper, who conducted the autopsy testified and said that Helen Nasal had been slashed through the throat and in the heart. In addition she was cut about the head and body. In all, she was cut about twenty-eight times.

Julia Nasal, a younger sister of the deceased woman was called and testified that Dean had had immoral relations with her from the time she was 12. She is now 17. For four years she was in the Home of the Good Shepherd in Pittsburgh from which she returned last February. She said Dean again forced his attentions upon her and that she is about to become a mother.

Testifies To Threats

Julia testified that Arthur had threatened to kill her if she told anybody about their relations and also said he would "get Helen one way or another."

Dr. Wayne W. Bissell managing director of the Jameson Memorial Hospital testified to testing the blood samples taken and to his findings.

County Detective Paul A. Welsh testified to Dean's admission to him of improper relations with Julia Nasal. At this point the commonwealth rested.

Mrs. John Dean, mother of Arthur F. Dean was called first and testified that her son would be 35 years of age December 17, 1940. He was born in Masontown, W. Va., but the family moved to Osage, W. Va. Arthur left school in the third grade and went to work doing various jobs. He worked on a railroad, in a coal mine and later came to Pennsylvania.

"He was always a good boy" said Mrs. Dean. She testified that she had a son, Charles William Dean, a veteran of the World War in the veterans' mental hospital in Chillicothe, O. She also said her brother William had been confined in an asylum, a sister Fanny had been in the asylum, that a cousin of her father's had been in the asylum and that his half sister had also been there.

Jess Dufford a superintendent for the WPA testified that Dean had worked for him, had been a good worker and had responded readily to orders. Asked if his mentality was average Dufford said "we had to father him along."

Burns W. McKissick of Jackson avenue, in whose home Dean lived said he had found Dean a good neighbor, a willing fellow but given to doing silly things. McKissick's testimony finished the morning session. It is expected that the testimony will be finished this afternoon.

Riddled Body Of Racketeer Found

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 25.—The bullet-riddled, battered body of a man found in Card Sound, 60 miles south of Miami, today was identified from Federal Bureau of Investigation files as that of Leon R. Massey, alias Leo Tocci, of New York, Pittsburgh and Erie, Pa.

FBI agents in Miami said he has a record as a small-time racketeer in those cities.

A vengeance or gang slaying was indicated, officers said, as his killers had left $30 and a valuable diamond-studded watch in his pockets.

Under the direction of Chief Thomas and Assistant Chief George Harper, instruction will be given in the operation of the pumpers and other phases of their work.

Beaver Falls To Play Here Friday Night

New Castle High Seeks Third Win Of Year, Resumes Heavy Training Schedule

ROBERTS MAY NOT START ON FRIDAY

New Castle High's big "Red Hurricane" is back on a heavy training schedule for the battle Friday night at Taggart Stadium, with their rivals, the Beaver Falls Tigers. The kickoff is slated for 8 o'clock.

All of the New Castle boys, with the exception of Larry "Spike" Roberts and Parou came out of the tough Youngstown East game without any signs of serious injuries. Roberts sustained another shoulder injury that may keep him on the bench this week.

Beaver Falls, denied victory in two starts this year, will come here Friday night to battle the "Red Hurricane" to the last ditch, it was announced by Coach Frank "Tiger" Walton. Beaver Falls has a big line, with a light fast backfield.

Lee Fine Passer

New Castle will not want for a pass thrower as long as Robert E. "General" Lee is in the ball game. The former Washington High star in the Youngstown East game handled the ball with the greatest of ease and his bullet like heaves gained a lot of ground for New Castle. Lee with more experience will develop into a fine passer and a general all-around triple-threat man. He can run, and also kick, with the best of them.

Freddy McKee, blocking quarter, is playing a fine game this year. He has been instrumental in helping the New Castle touchdowns to be completed. His blocks have been nice to watch. McKee is a fine field general.

Seek Third Win

New Castle, with victories over Grove City, Youngstown East, and a tie with Butler hopes to make it three wins Friday night. The boys intend to work hard this week to iron out a few mistakes that cropped up in the Youngstown East game.

Tickets for the game are now on sale at the Sporting Goods store, 105 North Mercer street. Beaver Falls will send several hundred here for the game, it is reported.

Roy Culbertson, of Milwaukee, playing a 148-yard shot to the green, hooked into a big tree to the left. The ball scared a bird, which fluttered out to the green and laid an egg, but the ball was nowhere to be found.

Culbertson, after a conference with his companions, played the egg for a birdie two—and immediately declared he had scored two birdies on one hole.

One of the most attractive thoroughbred yearling fillies produced in Kentucky this year is a daughter of Ariel from the Mad Hatter mare, Distraught, dam of Microphobia and Black Witch. This sprightly miss is in the consignment of Thomas Platt's Brookdale Farm.

With all except three of the contests slated for Baton Rouge, the Louisiana State football team will play a ten-game schedule, starting against Louisiana Poly. Tennessee, Auburn and Rice will be encountered in road games.

SHORT SPORTS

Rex Enright, head coach at the University of South Carolina, picks Duke, Clemson, North Carolina and Wake Forest in that order to dominate the Southern Conference this autumn. William and Mary is the Gamecock mentor's dark horse choice.

Against one of the Nation's poorest punting records last year the University of South Carolina Gamecocks chalked up one of the country's best averages in running back opposition kicks. Bill Lowry and Joe Grugan, both seniors this year were responsible for spectacular broken terrain spurts.

Maryland's grid squad of 43 is composed of 26 linemen and 17 backs and a couple of the latter may find their way into the forward wall. Harold Berry, a blocking back as a frosh last year, now is being tested as a running guard.

Shad Bryant, Clemson's great wingback of 1939 has returned to Clemson to complete his educational work for a degree. He is assisting Rock Norman with freshman coaching duties.

Baseball attendance in Jersey City is off 150,000 from the attendance of 1939. Last year the Little Giants were far ahead in the race. This year they're far down.

Tony Galento's fistic splurge netted him $100,000 in two years. He has invested his money in real estate and a bigger tavern in Orange, N. J.

Grid Program Here Colorful

Local Elevens Buck Up Against Array Of Formidable Foes This Week

BESSEMER BATTLE SHIFTED TO FRIDAY

Football moves into full swing this week-end. Local aggregations stack up against an array of formidable foes.

Various local pigskin denizens are characteristic of the opening of a bargain basement, so great is the activity. The squads are drilling strenuously.

BESSEMER GAME CHANGED

Announcement was made today that the Ursuline-Bessemer High game, originally billed for Saturday afternoon, has been moved up to Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock on Rayen Field, Youngstown.

Bessemer showed up fairly well against Hubbard, last week. The localites managed to eke out a 7-0 victory. Coach Capezzuti was pleased with the showing of his line. "The line looked impressive. The backs are still several shades from what I'd like them to be. The team gets its test against Ursuline," the mentor said today.

UNION-GREENVILLE

Union Township High encounters its second topnotch foe of the season Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, entertaining Greenville High. The Greenies gave an inkling of their strength last week, annihilating Pittsburgh South.

Coach John Susko is mapping out a plan to halt the powerful visiting eleven. The Scotland Laners have been on the sidelines for the past week. The rest figures to benefit the Unionites considerably.

SHENANGO-ZELIENOPLE

The Shenango-Zelienople game, slated for Shenango field, Friday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, adds much lustre to the local pigskin parade.

Zelienople comes here with one of its classiest outfits. So far, Zelienople has displayed a wealth of power and an abundance of deception.

Coach Frank Nocera will probably start the same combination which battled Marion Township's fighting eleven last week. Stolitca, Cline, Denny and Donley will complete the backs. The work of Dudash and Druschel is pleasing the mentor no end.

ELLWOOD-ROCHESTER

Ellwood City performs under the lights for the second time this season, playing host to Rochester High, Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The game is one of the highlights of the season. Both aggregations are reported to be in excellent early season condition.

TITANS-WEST VIRGINIA

Westminister's Titans have forgotten their 26-0 victory over Edinboro Teachers and are concentrating on Saturday's clash with West Virginia's Mountaineers, in Morgantown.

The game opens the grid campaign for the Mountaineers and marks the start of Bill Kerns' regime as coach of the West Virginia eleven. Kerns formerly piloted Carnegie Tech.

NEW CASTLE-BEAVER FALLS

The double A class between New Castle and Beaver Falls, Friday night at 8 o'clock at Taggart Stadium, completes one of the most colorful programs of the season.

The first-string University of Carolina backfield combination is Dutch Elston, quarterback: Bill Lowry and Angelo DeMario, halfbacks and DeWitt Arrowsmith fullback. However, Harvey Blouin and Al Grygo are sure to crash the Gamecock Notre Dame "T" party before the first game is well under way.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Notes off the cuff: Carl "Cacky" Gennock, recognized as one of the most competent independent basketball officials in the district, will be inactive for at least six weeks. The popular arbiter, basketball and baseball star is in the New Castle hospital suffering with a painful right eye injury. . . .

Carl was near the dugout, during the Ellwood-Lawrence Indies game Sunday, when a wild pitch struck him. Lawrence County's sports fraternity hopes that the likeable Carl recovers rapidly. A central figure in local hoop circles annually, Gennock hopes to take his place in the game by the time basketball enters the sports picture. . . .

Golf note: Jerry Vitto emerged with the caddy championship of the New Castle Field club. Vitto copped the toga by defeating Robert Hoover, 4 and 3, in a 36-hole match played recently. . . . The caddy team, incidentally, did not fair so well, winning one match against five setbacks. . . .

The conscription bill seems to be holding up the New York Yankee deal. The syndicate has already raised about a million but is having trouble securing the remaining three millions. The perspective shareholders are figuring out that the club won't be much of a drawing card if Uncle Sammy grabs Joe DiMaggio (who is eligible), only to mention one of the stars. Thus, the delay. . . .

By the time the 1941 major league campaign rolls around, two clubs are almost sure to have new pilots—Cleveland and the New York Giants. The trouble at Cleveland is bound to bring a new foreman. Even if Vitt is offered the post, which doesn't seem possible, he undoubtedly would turn his thumbs down. Over in Manhattan, Terry can't be affiliated with a losing club twice in a row. He may bob up with the Cleveland job. The remaining skippers seem to be safe. . . .

Football comes into the limelight this week-end. The day's bill is loaded with attractions. The Pitt-Ohio State fracas will top 'em all. Duquesne's opener against Waynesburg will be another hot shot, so will the U. C. L. A.-S. M. U. tiff. Washington-Minnesota, Boston College-Tulane and Michigan-California round up a busy week-end for the bigwigs. . . .

Ball Players Not Exempt From Draft

No Baseball Player Within Age Limit Cannot Hope To Escape Serving His Time

Many Of Big Time Baseball Stars Are Liable For Service With U. S. Army

By LEON W. SHLOSS
International News Service Sports Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—High-salaried major league baseball stars will receive no special consideration under the conscription law and will run the same chance of putting in a year's army service as the fan who pays a buck-ten to watch his diamond heroes perform, draft board officials predicted today.

Explaining that cases of ballplayers will be handled by local draft boards, just like all other cases, the draft officials revealed that board aspects of the problem of classifying major leaguers under the act already are under discussion. Most of the players on baseball's big-time are of draft age.

Policy Outlined

This much, observed the officials, can be said now:

1—All major leaguers of draft age, just like the most humble sandlotters, must register on Oct. 16.

2—They may be held to be "idle"—just as idle as an unemployed man—during off seasons, unless they have important wintertime jobs.

And the draft officials laid heavy emphasis on the word "important," indicating that off season employment like the shipyard work that many major leaguers turned to in 1917 to escape the draft in World War No. One may not be "important" enough in 1940.

A draft board official answered hypothetical questions regarding effect of the draft on the major leagues, emphasizing that his answers were "Iffy" because the local board will be the umpire-in-chief.

This official said that a ball star, single, about 23, without dependents, who goes off hunting in the wintertime, might find himself in the army if his number is drawn. However, a local board might hold that, because of the taxes on his big salary, it might be to the national interest to defer him.

All Must Serve

If a ball player's number comes up in mid-season, he probably would be deferred until the end of the season, when he would have to report. But if his number comes up in the off-season and he is inducted into the army, he would have to stay for his full year's training, with no furloughs allowing him to play in the majors in the summertime.

Draft board officials expect little trouble, however, with ball players' cases. Many are married, which proably would defer them. Others have dependents, also grounds for deferment. Still others have wintertime jobs that might be held vital to national interest.

But somewhere, the lightning may strike. And there are army officers who wouldn't protest if a major league ball star or two was sent his unit as a private. They feel this would boost morale greatly by showing the rank-and-file that the draft law affects rich and poor, well-known and unknown, alike.

Monk Meyer, of Honolulu, former Army backfield star, is coaching the service team at Schofield Barracks.

Browns Defeat Indians 7 To 2

Cleveland Pennant H 8s Jolted, Tigers Idle, Yankees Win Two

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—This dizzy American League pennant race promised today to have the figger filberts daffy by the end of the week as a result of developments yesterday, when the leading Detroit Tigers idled in the rain, the second place Cleveland Indians lost and the third place New York Yankees won a double-header.

The "if" calculators are busy with pencil and paper figuring up the possibilities among the three clubs, and as the situation stands now it doesn't take much imagination to envisage a triple tie by Sunday night, necessitating a double playoff for the title.

Old lady luck and the weather man also are factors not to be overlooked. The season ends Sunday and if there are any games unplayed, they remain unplayed.

Browns Beat Indians

And some of these pitchers with second division clubs can be very tough as the Indians found to their sorrow yesterday when they bowed to Elden Auker and the Browns, 7-2. The Browns recently put an awful damper on the Yanks by trimming the New Yorkers three straight times.

The Yanks tightened up the race by taking a double header from the Senators, 6-5, in 10 heats and 9-4 in a seven-inning game called by darkness. The double win ran the Yanks' victory skein to six straight. They tied up the opener in the ninth and put over the clincher in the tenth.

Fireman Johnny Murphy was credited with both decisions in relief roles and shared honors with Joe Gordon who made five hits, including three doubles, in one game and a homer in the other.

Dodgers Trip Giants

The Red Sox enjoyed themselves by taking a pair in Philly, 16-8 and 4-3. They made 23 hits including six homers in the opener and tied an American League record by hitting four homers in one inning. This game was notable only for the fact that it saw Jimmy Foxx make the 500th homer of his major league career.

There was only one game in the National but that one saw the Dodgers knock off the Giants for the 16th time in 21 starts, 5-4. This is more victories than the Dodgers ever scored over the Giants in any previous season.

Trap Shoot At Fair Grounds

There will be another trap and skeet shoot tonight at 8 o'clock at the Fair Grounds night-range, it was announced today by George Sillman, president of the Lawrence County Sportsmens association. The event will start at 8 o'clock.

The public is invited to attend these shoots. Guns will be furnished to those not having any. The only cost is for ammunition.

The Boston Bees are not thrilling the Boston fans with pennant gestures, but they have done a good job, all things considered, in two respects. They have given the flag favorites a tussle, and they have three outstanding rookies in Sisti, Rowell and Ross.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Sam Parks of Pittsburgh won the tenth annual Erie Open golf championship over a rain-swept course yesterday with a record equalling sub-par total of 133. Toby Lyons, Northeast amateur, finished second with a 137.

At Butler, James B. Crookston of the Stanton Heights golf club and former Pennsylvania State amateur champion won the Sons of American Revolution golf tourney yesterday for the third time with a low net score of 81. Dr. A. W. Zeller and Lynn B. Rittle all tied with 83s for second place with 71s.

Jack Dempsey will referee the Maxie Baer-Pat Comiskey fight at Jersey City, Thursday night. Jim Braddock will referee a semi-final and Mickey Walker will referee one of the other bouts.

Church Golfers To Dine Thursday

Shenango Presbyterian Church To Be Scene Of Annual Feed At 6:30

The New Castle church golf league will end its official 1940 season Thursday night as the Shenango Presbyterian church with a chicken dinner at 6:30 o'clock. T. H. 'Tommy' Hitchcock the retiring president will have charge of the short business meeting and election of officers that will follow the serving of the dinner.

There has been a fine program of entertainment lined up. The First Presbyterians the 1940 champs, will be given a trophy cup.

Upwards of 75 to 100 men members of the league will attend the dinner.

The Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, and their younger teammate, Arky Vaughn, are the only National League players who sport beside their names in the batting record of 100 or more triples.

A new press box that seats fifty-five working newspaper men has been constructed at the University of Detroit Stadium.

Zivic Is Next For Armstrong

Phil Furr Gave Champion Little More Than Workout On Monday Night

By BILL ZIMMERMAN
International News Service Sports Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Brushing off a feeble attempt to knock the welterweight crown from his kinky head, Henry Armstrong is looking forward today to a sterner defense of his title next month. "Homicidal Hank" Monday night flattened Phil Furr, the roving ex-doughboy who has been throwing leather down the path to nowhere during the past 10 years. The end came in round four.

While the bout was purportedly for the "welterweight championship of the world," Hank signed for a title fight with Fritzi Zivic on October 4 at Madison Square Garden—before he agreed to meet Furr.

The odds were heavily against Furr, only two persons giving him any chance—Phil, himself, and New York Boxing Czar Mike Jacobs, who wasn't missing any bets.

Make Jacobs Ready

Uncle Mike made a special trip from New York and sat less than 10 feet from his severest critic, National Boxing Association Secretary Harvey L. Miller, just to sign Phil to his long list of "controlled" fighters, in case Furr upset the champ.

Miller frequently has scorched Uncle Mike on the grounds that his monopoly on titleholders is killing popularity of boxing throughout the country.

Armstrong didn't even bother to make his usual fighting weight of 144 pounds, coming in more than 146 pounds.

The negro slasher proved that he still has plenty "on the ball", even though the opposition could not prove whether Henry is slipping, as alleged, or not.

He was such a good race horse and, being one of the best bred, Sweeping Light cannot fail to make good as a sire, many Kentucky horsemen believe. Sweeping Light was good enough to beat Equipoise on the race track and he is one of the only two sons of the English champion, Manna, standing in this country.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESERALL

Here it is just a slight degree cooler and we are hunting out heavier clothes. The merchants all over the district will enjoy this weather . . . they say we have worn our summer suits and dresses long enough . . . maybe that's right . . . so let's turn our thoughts to fall and winter fashions . . . Do you know how many days it is until Christmas?

Probably from time to time we will be hearing about people in business being called to camps . . . especially those who had service in the last war. Their leadership is worth a great deal . . . and we who have had little or no military training will no doubt profit by the experience . . . so it's sit tight from now until registration day.

* * *

In an English newspaper of last February 2 we found the following little story . . . showing how they made light of the things that have come to stay on their island . . . According to the paper this was a prize winning anecdote . . .

NOT HIS JOB

The A. R. P. warden had been around testing the gas masks, and had now come to the three old maids at the big house. Amelia and Jane greeted him and apologized for their sister Rose's absence. The masks were adjusted, and the warden said: "Well, now I hope your masks are O. K."

"Yes, thank you, they are," replied Amelia, "but what about our Rose's?"

The warden quite taken aback, said: "Oh, that's not my job; but I think perhaps you could spray them."

Here's one that might be pulled by someone after the 16th of October . . . two women are talking—

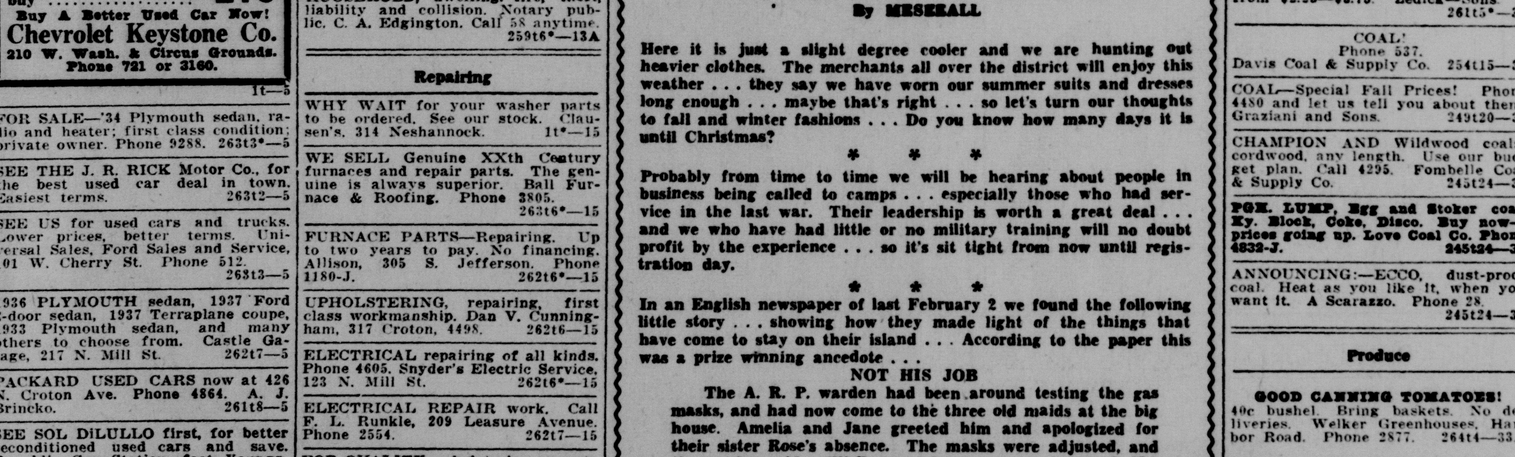

Mrs. Jones: "I wonder if I could borrow your carpet beater, Mrs. Smith?"

Mrs. Smith: "I'm sorry, but he joined up last week."

The Classified ads tell a story quickly and the results are just as quick . . . investigate them today . . . you will be surprised how cheaply you can tell your story.

Trading Slows Up In Stock Market

Profit-Taking In Wake Of Sustained Eight-Day Drive Tends To Slow Market Up

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The stock market today lost a little ground for the second day in a row, as dealings continued dominated by profit-taking in the wake of the recent sustained rise.

A few issues dropped as much as a point, but declines generally were limited to fractional proportions. Trading was slower, with first-hour volume 150,000 shares vs. 270,000 shares yesterday.

The list was irregularly lower at the opening, and continued to give way gradually through the first hour. Extreme losses were pared before midday, but the general market maintained an easier tone.

Ellwood Bouts Prove Exciting

Billy Rheale Kayoes Shed Bell In Thrilling Bout, Ellwood Boys Are Impressive

LEGION BENEFIT SHOW IS SUCCESS

Ellwood City turned out well last night in support of the American Legion benefit boxing show at the Ellwood City High Lincoln gym and were rewarded by a slam-bang seven-bout card. The main bout between Mike Candella of Youngstown and Baby Retardo of Ellwood had to be postponed due to the illness of the latter, instead Candella battled Arbie Bowie of Aliquippa and won the decision.

Quite a nice sum was realized for the Legion it was stated. The matchmaker was Merritt Book. Chairman of the event was Robert "Bob" Taylor, formerly of New Castle. There was some talk last night of another benefit show to raise funds for the Armistice Day celebration.

Ellwood Boys Win

In the curtain raiser Tony Arkett of Ellwood City won a decision over Lloyd McKain of Warren, Ohio in the 120 pound class. The boys mixed it freely and pleased the crowd. In the second bout Mike Wukus of Aliquippa won the nod over Pete Misto of Youngstown in the 145 pound class. This was a slashing hard battle all the way. In the third fight Rickey Loccisano of Ellwood City decisioned Vic Ragatti of Warren in the 135 pound class. Loccisano looked good in every round and punched his way to victory.

The fourth bout found Joey Yarosz of the Monaca Yarosz battling family getting the unanimous decision over Tom Brocken of Warren, Ohio in the 135 pound class. Yarosz had Brocken on the verge of a knockout in the third round. The sixth bout was one of the best on the diamond studded card finding Roy Crews of Ellwood City winning a popular decision over Tommy Fagadore of Warren, Ohio, in the 147 pound class. Crews looked the best last night that he has for some time, and punched well with both hands, having Fagadore on the verge of going down several times.

Rheale Wins by Kayo

The seventh and final bout was the only knockout on the thrill packed show, with Billy Rheale of Castlewood being awarded a kayo over Shed Bell of Youngstown in the third round of a bout that had the crowd on its feet. Both boys punched furiously from the first bell. Bell claimed that Rheale had hit him low in flooring him, but Deputy Commissioner Talbot of Rochester, Pa., ruled that Bell had not been fouled and that the bout be given to Rheale.

Rheale contended after the bout that he had not hit Bell with any low punches. Bell nevertheless lay on the canvas groaning until the doctor was summoned and Bell had to carried from the ring. He was soon revived in the dressing room.

The show was refereed by Tom McMahon of New Castle. The judges were Humbert Fazzone of New Castle and Emmett Rocco of Ellwood City. The timers were Howard Jones and Howard Gills both of Ellwood City. The show was announced by Charles P. "Bugs" Walther of New Castle. William Talbot represented the State Boxing Commission.

Russ Baxter of New Castle was on the card to meet Andy Bennish of Youngstown, Ohio, but the latter failed to show up. Baxter was on hand and was disappointed that he did not get to battle Bennish.

In serving a dainty lunch, the hostess was aided by her sister, Catherine.

Ellwood Prepares For Rochester High

Wolverines Return To Pigskin Trail Friday Night At Lincoln Field

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 25.—As the Ellwood City high school footballers prepare to return to the pigskin trail again on Friday night at Lincoln field when they will be hosts to Rochester high under the portable lighting system being tried out here, the "first line defense" is still beset by injuries.

Snare is still on the injured list owing to a leg injury and Charles Wolfe, right guard, is suffering from an arm infection. The squad was heartened today by the return to school of Paul Cartwright, regular quarterback, who had a severe ankle injury. Although he has to walk with crutches, the coaches hope he will be able to play during the latter part of the season.

Presto is being groomed to take Wolfe's place in the line. Because Lordo, substitute fullback, made such a splendid showing against Munhall on Saturday when he gained 29 yards in nine consecutive plays, when the going was tough, he has been given the fullback assignment for this week. Matrangol, who has been playing fullback, is being groomed as a wing back to replace Snare should he be unable to play Friday and also to strengthen the back reserves.

Coach Thurman F. Croft was greatly pleased with the team's performance against Munhall last Saturday and has devoted the practice sessions this week to improving the pass defense and to grooming the ends on defense stands. He thought the charging of the Ellwood line was an outstanding feature and believes Ross and Dudick, fifteen year old sophomores, will develop into great players with this year's experience. Moskal, a sophomore back, also made a pleasing showing and Rubino and Morrison's handling of the fullback position, in place of Cartwright, was a further source of satisfaction to the skipper.

Ernie Myers, Rochester coach, has a veteran team of ten lettermen and early in the season stated that his team would take the Beaver Valley championship. Those hopes, however, were abruptly ended Saturday when Midland handed the Rochesterites an unexpected 14 to 0 defeat. Previously Rochester defeated Freedom 38 to 0.

Year Of Red Cross Relief Reviewed

Assistance Given Helpless In War Stricken Areas Is Summarized

MUCH HELP NOW GOES TO BRITAIN

For more than a year, the American Red Cross has been engaged in meeting distress of the victims of the European war. What peoples have been aided and the kind of help given, has been summarized by the American National Red Cross as follows:

Assistance has been rendered to the British, French, Polish, Finnish, Norwegian, Belgian, Luxemborgois, Hollanders, Spanish and Chinese. Assistance was not given to Germans, Russians, Japanese or Italians, as their Red Cross societies stated, through the International Red Cross committee at Geneva, that they could care for their own people.

In bringing food, clothing and medical supplies to war sufferers, the American Red Cross had spent $5,089,204 as of August 31, and as of September 16, had arranged for the distribution of additional relief to the value of $3,051,614, making a grand total of $8,140,818. As of August 31, the Red Cross shipped to Europe 5,330,000 surgical dressings and about 800,000 refugee garments, produced by chapter volunteers.

Relief expenditures by countries as of August 31, were as follows:

Great Britain, $2,075,838, with commitments to the value of $2,051,614 authorized up to September 16; chapter produced garments shipped, 440,240; chapter produced surgical dressings, 4,537,465.

France: Total expenditures, $938,311; chapter produced garments shopped, 78,597; surgical dressings, 402,697.

Poland: Total expenditures, $529,393; garments shipped, 176,040; surgical dressings shipped, 41,187.

Finland: Total expenditures, $390,639; garments shipped, 81,536; surgical dressings shipped, 349,035. Up to September 14, additional commitments for Finnish relief total $1,000,000.

Other war relief expenditures include: a cash contribution of $50,000 to the Belgian Red Cross for relief of Belgian refugees in France; $25,000 for refugees from Netherlands; $45,000 to assist Norwegian victims of war; $5,000 to the League of Red Cross Societies for purchase of material to be made into undergarments for French, Polish, and Spanish soldiers interned in Switzerland; $25,000 to the Philippine Red Cross for mass feeding and shelter for American and British evacuees from Hong Kong; sums of money cabled to Bilbao, Lisbon, Nice, Madrid, Barcelona, and Marseilles to assist Americans arriving in these ports to secure transportation home and temporary care; and $10,000 for the relief of Chinese victims of recent aerial attacks on the city of Chungking.

Another activity begun by the Red Cross at the war's outset was the Inquiry and Information Service, which has handled more than 50,000 requests from Americans to obtain information and welfare reports on friends and relatives living in war areas. Over 16,000 reports have been successfully terminated, the major portion of which have been cleared through the International Red Cross in Geneva.

Fall Clean-Up Of Gardens Is Urged

Many Plant Diseases Can Be Eliminated By Destroying Stalks

HARRISBURG, Sept. 25.—John H. Light, secretary of agriculture, today said gardeners, in the Fall, should burn the refuse from such garden plants as are likely to carry pests into the coming year, and the refuse from all other plants should be dug under.

Among the plants which should go on the bonfire are: Potato and tomato stalks, cucumber vines, beet leaves, beans, asparagus tops, celery refuse, and from the flower garden, the above-ground parts of hollyhock, all fallen rose leaves, the entire aster plant, including the roots, and the old tops of phlox. Among the diseases which this burning will help to control are potato early blight and wilt, tomato leaf spot, cucumber wilt, beet leaf spot, bean anthracnose, asparagus rust, early and late blight of celery, hollyhock rust, rose leaf spot and phlox mildew.

Plants which may be dug into the garden soil with comparative safety include: immature weeds, the refuse of salsify, spinach, parsnip, onion, horse-radish, lettuce, turnip, cauliflower, cabbage and carrot. If additional vegetable material is desired, and a good supply of barnyard manure is not available, the leaves of shade trees make a good substitute. While these leaves often carry diseases, none are likely to affect garden plants and they may be used safely as a source of humus.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It was on May 30, 1915, that a barge load of powder from the Hercules Powder company, en route to Seattle from San Francisco, was blown up by German agents. These agents were C. C. Crowley, formerly a detective for the Southern Pacific Railroad company, and Lewis J. Smith, an American of German descent. Smith was caught, tried and aquitted, but later quarrels among the saboteurs and their employers caused him to turn state's evidence and thereafter came the revelations of the dynamiting of ships, bridges, factories, tunnels and docks by which Germany sought to paralyze this country before its possible entry into the war.

These revelations did not come swiftly and all at once. As the plots unfolded bit by bit they seemed fantastic melodrama. We had no effective counter-espionage service at the time. Cultured, highly placed Germans in diplomatic and social circles used unsuspecting friends to counter any suspicion that the bombers were hired by Germany. They had able lawyers and publicity men. It was not until the trials of the saboteurs produced indisputable evidence of official responsibility that we began to wake up.

But by that time, they had damaged American industry and transportation to the extent of about $200,000,000, and possibly more. On the basis of known payments to the wreckers and killers, it is known that Germany spent at least $40,000,000 for this highly organized criminal campaign. This figure must have been much larger, as obviously not all such payments could be brought to light.

The recent explosion at the Hercules Power company plant in New Jersey was preceded by widely published news stories of the presence in this country of several of the German agents who had helped in the Murderous Black Tom and Kingsland explosions. There had also been published many convincing and carefully supported assertions that the Germany of today is spending vastly greater sums for planned ruin and killing in this country than did the Kaiser's Germany. The question of our counter-espionage resources becomes in some way as urgent as our effort in physical defense. Have we better preparation than we had in 1915?

Naturally an intelligence service doesn't wear its heart on its sleeve. Specific, convincing data covering the extent and efficiency of our defense against spies and wreckers is not available. There is, however, reason to believe that we have not altogether missed the lesson of 25 years ago. Through several administrations, the secret service of the Treasury Department, and the Immigration and Naturalization Service have been strengthened and we have been singularly fortunate in the steadily growing efficiency of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, under J. Edgar Hoover.

The Military Intelligence long has been under-staffed and without adequate funds and was all but hopelessly handicapped during the first World War. I am informed that both army and navy intelligence units now are stronger and are covering more ground as we again face the dire problem of stealthy foreign subversion and devastation. A naval official of my acquaintance tells me we are in a much better state in this regard than would have seemed possible two or three years ago.

It is inconceivable that this country—any democracy in fact—could have penetrated Germany or Russia or Italy with spies and saboteurs in preparation for a possible war. Such penetration of the domain of peaceful neighbors is one of the first laws of life for aggressive, authoritarian nations. Absolutism is an explosive, revolutionary force while democracy draws its strength from mutual trust and the presupposition of an orderly world and honorable dealings. Our defenselessness of 1915 was understandable, but there is no reason, in spite of such disadvantages, why we should be again caught off guard. A useful job of writing and publishing just now, as well as an exciting crime story, would be a comprehensive roundup of that $200,000,000 wrecking job, from 1915 to 1917.

The trouble is that too many are eager to save America for their crowd instead of saving it for all of us.
